

The Bull Run 2005

The date to note was 21 October 2005. For the first time, Central Singapore CDC joined the rest of the finance industry and listed companies in The Bull Run 2005. There were no stocks up for grabs in this Bull Run. Instead, we saw participants from the various companies/organizations charging down the busy Central Business District roads in their office attire.

A charity run spearheaded by Singapore Exchange, Central Singapore CDC was proud to be a community partner in this year's fund-raising efforts.

The event aimed to raise fund for 14 charities that help needy children, including the Autism Association (Singapore), The Straits Times School Pocket Money Fund, selected programmes supported by Community Chest, or affiliated to the National Council of Social Services, many of them found within the Central Singapore District.

The councillors and staff of Central Singapore CDC formed a group to participate in the 3.2km fun run. The group kicked off the run with one objective in mind- running as one. The run was a time for all of them to come together to participate as one. It did not matter how one fared in the race, finishing it was essential, regardless of the time.

Dawn Ng, our Sports Manager with Central Singapore CDC was all ready for the run. A regular runner, the route was a breeze for her. Amongst the first to sign up for the race, she spent a whole month looking forward to it. Not out to win, her participation encouraged a few others who were hesitant to sign their name off for the race.

At the end of 3.2km fun run, the runners were greeted with bright lights at the Padang, where a mini-carnival awaited. Our very own Lindy Hop group from the Community Life Arts Programme (CLAP!) was featured in the stage performance.

We certainly look forward to the next Bull Run! 🌿
