

An Ace in Space Management

The ingenious use of a row of bookshelves created a corridor for the staff of GREEN STRAWBERRIES Pte Ltd to access their private amenities area away from their visitors' view. It also created a strategic vantage-point from which the boss could keep an eye on his troops and coordinate their efforts.

Offices With Personality

By Irene Wee

The way you decorate your office expresses so much corporate personality of the firm- austere or friendly, arty or down-to-earth...and the touches that people put in their own little cubicles also throw fresh light on their work-styles and personal needs.

Voices picks some interesting offices and make some observations on the way they are put to work to reflect their occupants' preferences and needs.

A Touch of Nature

Plants are always a wonderful counterpoint to the busy and competitive atmosphere of the business world. At this office, a well-selected indoor plant provides some drama as well as a touch of nature, like a welcome breath of fresh air into the high-stress quagmires of the corporate jungle.

Cool, Calm and Coporate

In this office at Malex Motion Pte Ltd, the ice-green glass table top matches the glass sliding doors. The pastel shades and colour-wash effect of the Chinese brush paintings soften the whole mood and provide a serene calming effect.

The Intellectual Office

The glass head is a sure conversation piece, imbuing this sleek minimalist office cubicle with an intellectual air. Was it meant to be an exhortation to think clearly, or perhaps a companion to confide in when facing a complex challenge or even a personal beef? Well, our secret is safe because this little head isn't prone to office gossip.
